Watch closely ... are you paying attention? Australia's leading sleight of hand specialist lifts the veil on the world of card cheating for 30 audience members at a time. Step into the shadows with Harry Milas for a rare and exclusive experience, where deception and skill collide in a way few have ever witnessed – and even fewer dare to discuss. Coming to Edinburgh on the heels of a 4-month sell-out US tour, THE UNFAIR ADVANTAGE offers an intimate and unparalleled glimpse into the artistry of deception.

Part performance, part tutorial, this unique theatrical event reveals the secrets behind the skill that saw Harry embroiled in the underworld and ultimately becoming a security asset for the world's top casinos. Harry will expose many of the best tricks and illusions he knows. He'll start you off easy, but as the show progresses, greater displays of card play unfold and exciting secrets are revealed...it becomes a bit magical.

An important note for audience members – before participating in this experience you'll be asked to sign a legal contract of confidentiality. Please bear this in mind when choosing to take part.

Recognised as Australia's foremost sleight-of-hand artist, Harry Milas has taken THE UNFAIR ADVANTAGE around the world, earning rave reviews at the Adelaide Fringe, the largest arts festival in the southern hemisphere, as well as selling out extended runs in Chicago, San Diego, and an exclusive residency at the Sydney Harbour Bridge Pylon.

Harry has consulted and designed magic effects for several of Australia's theatre companies including Belvoir St Theatre. Harry has also provided exclusive performance for Cartier, Westpac and Google and has trained casino security to identify card fraud and police fair play.

Don't miss the chance to witness deception at its finest. This is an experience that will change the way you see cards forever.

THE UNFAIR ADVANTAGE plays at The Famous Spiegel tent, St Andrews Square at 11:45am from 24 July to 25 August (75 minutes).
